Jesus Outwits the High Priests Who Attack Authority

The Second Chapter of Dr. Grant's Story About Easter

JUDAS IN BETRAYAL

For 30 Pieces of Silver He Agrees to Deliver Up His Master

The dramatic story of events leading up to the first Easter is here retold from the Gospels by Frederick C. Grant, D. D., Professor of Biblical Theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York. The reference at the end of each installment is to a Gospel account.

By FREDERICK C. GRANT, D. D.
Written for The AP Feature Service
It was just before Passover when Jesus and his followers came up to Jerusalem. That is, it was spring, perhaps early in April.

The day of the festival was to be the next following the full moon in the month of Nisan.

Nightly by night, as the moon grew rounder and brighter, the pilgrims camped out on the hillsides surrounding Jerusalem. They had come from all over Palestine to keep the feast.

Jesus and his disciples spent their nights at Bethany, a village just to the east. Each morning, they rose and went into the city, and here Jesus spent his time teaching in the temple-courts, the area surrounding the shrine itself.

At once he was challenged by the official teachers. They said to him: "By what authority doest thou these things?" "Who gave you authority to do them?"

And Jesus replied: "Tell me, John the Baptist sent by God, or not? What was his authority?"

They saw at once they were cornered by his question. If they replied, "Yes, God sent him," then Jesus would ask: "Why then did you not receive him, and be baptized by him?"

And they dared not answer. No, for all the people standing around knew that John was a prophet, and would probably lay hands on them for denying it.

And so they replied, sheepishly, "We do not know."

And Jesus retorted, "Then I will not tell you what my authority is either!"

Another trap they set for him was the question of tribute to Caesar: should Jews, whose only allegiance was to the God of their fathers, pay a tax to the pagan empire?

Jesus asked for a coin and inquired: "Whose picture and whose words are these on the coin?"

Then pay Caesar what belongs to him; but pay to God what is His?"

And so they went away, marveling at his skill in answering.

But the priests were implacable. They had made up their minds to get rid of this non-professional teacher of religion. If possible, they wanted to do it before the feast, to avoid a riot.

Then came Judas' betrayal. He was one of the 12 disciples of Jesus, but for a consideration (thirty pieces of silver), less than $25, but a laborer's wage for four months, he offered to hand over to his master to the priests.

The time was set. He knew where Jesus would be on a certain night. If the priests would supply even a handful of men, he would lead them. Had he lost faith in Jesus? Or did he expect Jesus to assert himself, under threat of danger, and set up his kingdom at once?

Judas hanged himself a few days later without explaining; but either way the high priests, his offer was a bit of luck, better than they could have hoped for!

Nineteen Counties Represented FSA Meeting in Hope

Frank Horsfall Opens 2-Day Conference at Hope City Hall

5,453 TO GET AID

Nineteen Counties to Receive Two Millions in Payments

The Farm Security conference of workers in 19 counties in southwest Arkansas, began Tuesday morning with 85 representatives present, Frank Horsfall, district supervisor, presiding.

After prayer by Rev. Thos. Brewster, and a word of greeting by the secretary of the chamber of commerce, the program of the meeting began with a report from each of the counties represented.

These reports showed that in the 19 counties, 5,453 farm families will receive assistance this year amounting to $2,045,888.00.

After introducing the visitors from the regional, state and district offices and other guests, Mr. Horsfall introduced H. E. Thompson, state director of F. S. A., who stressed the need of greater publicity for the benefits of this program.

He urged county supervisors to conduct tours, showing the improved conditions of farmers helped by F. S. A. use of programs before civic organizations, newspaper publicity, and other means of showing the public the value of this work.

Miss Gladys Waters, associate state director, stressed in her talk the need of a live-at-home program and more consideration of the woman's place in farm economy.

J. F. Rains, district agricultural agent talked on co-operation of the extension department in this work and Miss Ella Posey, district home demonstration agent, talked on leadership. The meeting will continue through Wednesday afternoon.

Italians Reported Planning Coup in Albania Kingdom

England Disturbed, But Thinks King Zog Himself Behind It

REACHING FOR OIL

Italians Interested in Developing Albania's Resources

LONDON, Eng.—(P)—Unconfirmed reports that Italy planned to send troops to occupy Albania brought a British hint Tuesday that such action would violate the British-Italian friendship agreement.

Informed British quarters indicated that the British government, while not planning to fight over Albania, would expect to be consulted over any disturbance of the status quo regarding national sovereignties in the Mediterranean area.

It was emphasized in British quarters that a request from Albania herself might have led Italy to prepare to take action.

Italian Rumblings

ROME, Italy.—(P)—Rumors that Italy intends to strengthen her control of Albania, the little country of King Zog, persisted here Tuesday despite official denials.

Diplomatic circles heard unconfirmed reports that 20,000 or more Italian troops are concentrated at Bari, Brindisi, directly across from Albania, with troop ships standing by.

Reports of Italian troop movements here, linked with rumors that Italy is contemplating a semi-protectorate over Albania with the consent of King Zog, for greater development of Albania's oil and other resources.

4 Die in Crash of 2 Navy Airplanes

Third Plane of Formation Strikes Another, and Both Fall

EAST BRAINTREE, Mass.—(P)—Two navy biplanes crashed 2,000 feet in the air Tuesday, and four men perished as they plunged flaming to earth.

All four men were listed as residents of Greater Boston.

Wesley Williams, commercial aviator and flying instructor, who was aloft at the time, said a third plane of a group of six flying in formation dived into one wing of a second plane.

The second plane, "fell apart," he said and plummeted downward into a house, setting it afire. The other plane faltered for a moment, he added, and then went down in a power dive.

Senate Approves Cotton Sale Bill

Would Authorize Sale of Staple Back to Farmers at 5c Pound

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(P)—A bill under which the government would sell part of its huge cotton holdings back to cotton farmers at the bargain rate of five cents a pound, passed the senate Monday and went to the house.

Containing provision sharply at variance with the export subsidy program recently advocated by President Roosevelt, the measure went through on a voice vote after a discussion lasting little more than two hours.

Offered by Senator Bankhead (Dem., Ala.) and backed by a group of other Southern senators, the bill stipulates that farmers buying the cotton must make a corresponding reduction in their 1939 acreage below existing allotments.

Under the measure, as much as 3,000,000 bales of the 11,000,000 bales which the government accepted from farmers as security for loans would be released back to the farmers. The government would suffer a loss of about four or five cents a pound. This would mean $20 to $25 a bale, or from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000, if 3,000,000 bales were withdrawn.

Bankhead told the senate that not more than 1,000,000 bales might be taken by farmers because many had progressed too far with plans for this year's crop to make a reduction below their quotas.

In its original form the bill would have provided for release of the cotton at three cents a pound, but the senate changed this to five cents on motion of Minority Leader McNary (Rep., Ore.).

Bankhead and McNary disagreed as to the correct method for estimating the cost of the program. The Republican said that the average of the loans made by the Commodity Credit Corporation was 10.46 cents a pound since

Jack Benny Pleads Guilty Smuggling

Assessed $10,000 Fine With Suspended Sentence of Year

NEW YORK.—(P)—Jack Benny, radio, stage and screen comedian, threw himself upon the mercy of a federal court Tuesday and admitted guilt on charges of smuggling, based upon the purchase of $2,131 worth of jewelry as a gift for Mary Livingston, his wife and partner.

Benny was sentenced by Judge Vincent L. Leibell to pay three fines, totaling $10,000, and serve a year and a day in prison. The prison sentence was suspended.

George Burns, also a famous comedian, pleaded guilty to virtually the same charges last December. He was fined $8,000 and given a suspended sentence of a year and a day.

Albert Chaperon, co-defendant with Burns and Benny, pleaded guilty to both charges and is still awaiting sentence.

Sunrise Service 6:30 a. m. Easter

All Citizens Urged to Attend Outdoor Union Service in Stadium

Two years ago Hope held her first Union Easter Sunrise Service and next Sunday morning it is to be observed again. Every church, and people who are not affiliated with any church, are urged to plan to attend this service which begins at 6:30 in the morning.

It is estimated that no attempt is made to have an elaborate service, but in simplicity the people of this community, and surrounding country, meet and commemorate the resurrection from the dead, of the Saviour of the world. As this annual service is perpetuated, it is to be hoped that a simple, worshipful attitude shall always characterize it and that denominationalism, as such, shall have no part, but together the community may congratulate and be reminded again that, "Up From the Grave He Arose."

There is an inherent desire to worship in every human soul. In countries which do not have the Christian religion, there is never-the-less, almost invariably, a religion in which worship of something or somebody, plays a large part. How much more should we, who live in a land that is nominally Christian, if not actually so, set aside time and provide opportunity to worship God in Spirit and in Truth.

Of course no one believes that an attendance at an annual sunrise service will suffice for a year of remembering Christ, but undoubtedly those present will be reminded that Christ, who arose from the dead, will and can be a personal Saviour to every one.

All necessary preparations, for the comfort and enjoyment of the great crowd, are being made by the competent committees and a general, widespread invitation to the entire vicinity has gone forth to plan to be present at 6:30 Easter Sunday morning.

Remember, it is to be held in the High School Stadium and if the weather is inclement, the High School Auditorium will be used.

Let's make this the biggest and best Union Sunrise Service yet held in Hope. Let every Christian remember that effectual, earnest prayer, will go a long way toward making the service a real success.

Thanks to A. R. P. DONCASTER, Eng.—(P)—More than 8,000 children of this district had a holiday so that 120 of their teachers could undertake voluntary work in connection with Air Raid Precautions.

Farm President Kiwanis Speaker

Huskey Urges Farmers to Reap Full Federal Benefits

Six Hope High School Musicians appeared on the program of the Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday night at Hotel Barlow. They gave several musical numbers and will reappear on the good-will tours of the club starting at 6:30 in the morning.

H. H. Huskey, president of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau, gave a talk before the club on the relationship between business and farming, stressing the point that it was necessary for the business man to encourage the farmer in using his soil-building allotments thereby giving the farmer a greater income and increasing business in general.

As an example he pointed out that $12,000 in soil-building practices was returned to the federal government unused in Hempstead county alone during 1938 which decreased Hempstead county business by thousands of dollars.

The program was arranged by Olin Lewis and A. H. Wade, Farm Security Administrator for this county.

MIND Your MANNERS

T. M. Reg. U. S. Pat. 02

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it correct to say, "Mr. Brown, Mrs. Smith," in making an introduction?

2. How should a man speak of his wife in talking to an acquaintance?

3. How might a woman introduce her husband to an old friend?

4. Should a child be taught to introduce the friends that he brings home?

5. When there is a child in the room and introductions are being made, should he be included also?

What would you do if—

You want to learn a rule for introducing men and women—

(a) Remember the woman's name is spoken first?

(b) Remember that it does not matter which name is spoken first?

Answers

1. No. The other way around.

2. "My wife" or "Jane."

3. "Mary, this is Jim."

4. Yes.

5. Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(a). It does matter.

Penciled Receipts Invalid in Voting

Deputy Comptroller Calls Attention to Ink Requirement

LITTLE ROCK.—Deputy Comptroller J. Bryan Sims said Tuesday that collectors in only a few of the state's 75 counties signed poll receipts in ink; the practice of using indelible pencil prevailing.

A supreme court decision Monday that only receipts signed in ink are valid for voting purposes caused speculation in capital quarters over the status of municipal elections being held this Tuesday in first-class cities and incorporated towns.

Attorneys in capital offices predicted many suits would be filed contesting the results in counties where pencil-signed receipts have been issued.

Arkadelphia Mill Is Ordered Sold

Creditors Obtain Order for Its Sale at Price of $18,000

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Sale of the Arkadelphia Milling company property to H. T. Wiegand and others, trustees for the creditors of the old Arkadelphia Milling company, for $18,000, was approved in Chancery court here Monday.

It was agreed that the Arkansas Milling company, of which J. Lee Fowler is president, should have an option on the property for 30 days for a cash price of $25,000. Failure to pay in 30 days would perfect the title in the trustees.

At a former court sale last fall, John T. Gaston of Sparkman bid $22,620 for the mill, but failed to make the payment.

Damages Returned in Illegal Strike

CIO Union and Its Leader Held Liable by U. S. Court Jury

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(P)—A labor union and its president were held responsible Monday for damages during a sidewalk strike in the Apex hosiery mill and were ordered to pay the company $711,832.

The verdict of a federal court jury of eight women and four men blamed Branch 7 of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers (C. I. O.), and William Leader, its president. The strike lasted 48 days in the spring of 1937.

The jury's finding was the first of its kind since the United States Supreme Court ruled sidewalk strikes illegal a few weeks ago.

Benjamin Simons, defense attorney, announced he would appeal the verdict, which does not make the union's 15,000 members subject to attachment.

"It's absolutely right," F. Ellwood Struve, general manager of the company, said of the verdict. "Justice has been done."

Several witnesses told of bricks being thrown through windows of the plant and the wrecking of machinery and office furniture.

Leader admitted that he called the strike, but insisted it was not a sit-down.

21 Put to Death After Civil War

General Franco's Government Executes Republican Police

VALENCIA, Spain.—(P)—The former chief of the Republican military police in Valencia, Loreto Apellaniz Garcia, and 20 of his aides were executed Monday after being convicted by a Nationalist military tribunal of assassinations and tortures during the civil war.

They were convicted Saturday also of killing and imprisoning many Nationalist supporters, and of terrorizing Valencia during the war. They were the first persons tried by Nationalist military courts.

The newspaper Advance commented: "The justice of Franco has promised a general pardon to those dragged into the tremendous fight against their will, but upon those who for indolence or inquiry took traitors' arms will fall inexorably the weight of our serene justice, without passion and without vengeful hate, but also without vacillation."

Cafes and bars were opened again as Nationalist money began to appear. In front of banks long lines wound through the streets waiting to change pre-war money for the new Nationalist bills.

Bread now is plentiful.

Early Diagnosis of T. B. Is Important

Miss Hattie Ann Feild Is Named Chairman for Campaign

JAMES H. Pilkinton, tuberculosis seal chairman of Hempstead county, Tuesday announced the appointment of Miss Hattie Ann Feild of Hope as county chairman for the Arkansas Tuberculosis Association Early Diagnosis campaign.

This campaign is to continue during the month of April in conjunction with the national association which each year sets aside April as the month to focus attention on the necessity for early diagnosis of tuberculosis.

This campaign is not a money-raising project, but merely an educational one.

Miss Feild said that statistics showed that eight out of every ten persons sent to sanitariums are far advanced cases and if they recover they must have a long period of rest and care.

If tuberculosis is diagnosed early it can be cured at a smaller expense to the taxpayers and with almost no expense to human life, Miss Feild said.

She will announce her committee with a sub-committee at a later date.

Stop Mourning a Market Lost Forever

Weighted as well as fast, the great European market, which took of four hands vast surpluses of farm products in the 1920's, is gone forever.

It never did exist, really, because during the World War the need was abnormal, and afterward the trade was largely supported by huge loans.

Ever since the war men have been dreaming of the return of this market, a normal, which never was normal. Desperate moves toward self-sufficiency by all European countries, the rise of new and competing producing areas, the warring up of trade areas by totalitarian countries—all these have combined to destroy a market which once took the products of 50,000,000 acres of American farmland.

Secretary Wallace admits that this market is gone forever. The present trade difficulty with Germany, while it will cut down German imports here, will also further reduce export of cotton for which Germany was a good market. Overwhelming surpluses of cotton will continue to pile up.

There is no one facing this problem. One is to develop, insofar as possible, markets in the western hemisphere to replace those lost in Europe. Secretary Wallace is hard at work on this, and it is possible that good work can be accomplished in this way. But it will take time, planning, and development money.

Another approach is more immediate and more direct. Farmers in one or two areas are beginning to realize that the great European export market is lost for good.

There is not and cannot be any permanent future in producing for a market that is gone, despite any generosity the government can muster. More and more such farmers, directed by wise and forward-looking local leaders, especially in the south, are turning to crop diversification, raising vegetables, or dairying, to supply things now generally missing from the diet of the people.

Manufacturers who stubbornly went on building 42-cylinder automobiles that nobody could buy and piling them up in a warehouse, would be considered cracked. But farmers who continue to raise cotton and wheat that nobody can buy is just unfortunate.

More and more of them are thinking hard about raising things that people can buy. The soy beans have gone from a novelty into an important staple within 10 years. Many a farmer has found that well-tended woodland on his land yielded him more than fields in unwanted crops. The domestic need for vegetables and dairy products in many regions has never been supplied at all.

Before the problem can be solved it must be faced. Realization that the European markets of the 1920's are gone forever is the first step.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

Knowledge of Circumstances Aids Doctor in Fighting "Breakdowns"

Recently a physician who specializes in mental disturbances, described a number of cases typical of the manner in which social stresses, in the home, may tend to bring about what people commonly call "nervous breakdowns."

For instance, a young woman, married to a laborer, with a baby a few weeks old, suddenly claimed to be married to Satan and to have passed through the Judgment Day. The mental disturbance occurred at a time when she was recovering from severe influenza.

Careful study of her social relationships indicated that she was dissatisfied with her married life, that her husband gave her little opportunity for expression of her own ideas, and that she had been simply unable to arouse him to more interest. After the baby came, the family was considerably troubled by interference from the husband's parents.

The combination of circumstances was too much for her at the time when she developed the severe influenza, so that her mind "broke down" under the strain.

In this manner a combination of circumstances may work to bring about a serious result. It is conceivable that the young woman might have survived either the neglect of the baby, the interference of the in-laws, individually, but the combination was too much for her.

In another instance, the father in a home drank to excess. The mother was an excellent housekeeper, but not interested in much else because, frankly, she had married principally to get a home.

She endeavored to find a real interest in the growth of her children, but simply because she had no other interest, she was oversensitive to their faults and constantly accused and nagged them. The result was a revolt on the part of her son which manifested itself in extreme slowness and unwillingness to participate in the affairs at school.

Cases of this type show how difficult may be the problem of the physician who is called to see a patient when it

Meet Einstein in New Book!

It is a black, friendly scientist, not a solemnly concerned for the welfare of the world, that H. Gordon Garbedian pictures in his important biography, "Albert Einstein, Grandfather, Wagnalla, $3.75." Here the great German emerges as an altogether different personality than that you would ordinarily associate with the "maker of universes," the "wonderful century Newton," as he has been variously called.

Garbedian in fact portrays two Einsteins: the brilliant scholar, the genius, intent on unlocking the infinitesimal relationship between doctor and patient as the very basis for the best medical practices.

And Einstein, the man, worker, for world peace, social justice, international understanding. But the two characters are inextricably linked.

This is because Einstein looked on his science as merely an opportunity to advance civilization another step. By anything he does, every calculation he makes is aimed toward that end. The result is a tower of intellectual integrity. Typical case in point was Einstein's refusal to sign a declaration with 83 German scholars attempting to shift the responsibility for the World War from Germany.

That refusal cost Einstein dearly in professional friendships in association. But the scholar placed principle first. That was to be true again in 1939 when he renounced his German citizenship.

Garbedian incidentally includes two chapters in his book clarifying the relativity theory.

"At the first announcement of the theory," says Garbedian, Einstein was deluged with requests for explanations.

Collegians Will Study Geography Firsthand

THEIR HAUTE, Ind.—(AP)—Some 100 Indiana State Teachers College students will learn geography, at first hand, next summer in a 3,000-mile expedition to the eastern United States and Canada.

Two buses will take them to see the places they could only read about if they stayed on the campus. They will visit Washington and the New York World's Fair.

Prof. W. Leroy Perkins will lecture daily on the buses. Students will get lessons in their hotel rooms at night and take final examinations when they return here.

An Easter Prayer

God, Always let my heart respond to beauty!
Never let me grow too old to see
This wakening loveliness of early April.
The wonder of a newly budded tree,
Never let my senses dull to color,
Or to glowing purity of bells that chime,
That come to bless the world at Easter time.
God, let me see the blessed resurrection
That lives in every singing blade of grass.
Let me hear the whispered note
Of gladness
That the soul of gentle winds that pass.
God, let me know the vivid thrill of being
And let me know a new, your boundless mercy,
That is the symbol of the Easter tide.
—Sealed.

At the Special Pre-Easter service, at the Methodist church at 7:30 p. m.
Tuesday the Rev. Kenneth L. Spore, pastor, will speak on the subject, "The Stone Which the Builders Rejected," or "What Becomes of People Who Reject Christ."

These services are being held at 10
a. m. and 7:30 p. m. each day. The subject Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock will be, "The Master of Men."
Attention is again called to the series of seven short services Friday afternoon on "The Seven Last Words From the Cross." These services will be each twenty minutes in duration, so arranged that worshippers may come and go.

a phonograph record and give all to shade eastern collegiate sissies who merely swallowed goldfish to prove something or other.

Visitor, Mrs. Lon Davis.

The President, Mrs. R. E. Adams, presided over the meeting. We sang our club songs, and especially liked "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," with Mrs. Berlin Jones singing solo part.
Minutes were read and approved.
Treasurers report given which showed a small balance after paying $3.72 for chairs for club house.

We have a nice collection for our emergency kit of sick room supplies.
Other than club members are invited to contribute to this, "kit," as it will be used for entire community.

Mrs. Ed Black presented a hand made towel rack. The roller being made of spools on a rod. It is very effective. The only cost was a bit of paint.

Miss Bullington demonstrated planting a home ground. Beginning with a clean scraped yard, letting each member make suggestions for improvement. At close of demonstration we had an ideal house with very effective landscaping, including either a formal garden or flower garden.

The club decided to sponsor an Easter party for ladies, including an Easter egg hunt for small children, on Friday afternoon, April 17. Every lady in the community is invited.
Come and bring your small child, and let's have a real get together party.

Our next regular meeting will be Tuesday afternoon, April 11, at club house. The demonstration will be finishing floors.

Talbot Field, Sr., district manager of the Reliance Life Insurance company of Pittsburgh, is observing his eighth anniversary as a representative of the company in this area. He is in receipt of the following letter from Emmel Golden, manager of the company:

"You and the Reliance Life Insurance company have now been pulling together for eight years and it's my pleasure to congratulate you upon this your Reliance anniversary.

"During the period your company has moved steadily forward and is now ranked as one of the 25 'A' companies of the country. It will continue to make life insurance history.

"May your second 8 years as a Reliance representative be even bigger and better than your first 8, and thanks
a million, with more power, to you.

Yours sincerely,
E. Golden, Manager."

Mr. Field has won a Reliance gold watch for writing a completed application each week. He also has made the Perfect Protection club and the $100,000 club, and has won several other prizes during the past year.

RAISING A FAMILY

By Olive Roberts Barton

This Column Never Aims at Any One Mother

Last night a lady I know very well said, "When I read your stories I always think you mean me."

For an instant I was horrified, and then it struck me that, after all, it was the best compliment I could have had.
I like to think that the things I write about are common problems with many mothers. And this, after all,
was a comment of no mean value.

At the same time, I assured her, and I assure you, too, mother, that I really am extremely impersonal in my criticism or advice.

The problems I try to solve are often best approached by concrete stories, in short, actually happenings. Yet I take good care never to refer directly to anyone I know.

Some of my examples, to be sure, come from real life. Often they are excerpts from my own experience and mistakes. Again they are taken from my mail. Occasionally, I reverse the story of my good friends and neighbors, who have done wise things, and in order to put over an idea, I make what is called in literary parlance an "obstacle" of it, which shows up the result of mistakes more forcibly than the facts themselves.

Not that I fabricate, really. But when I see a wise mother handling her children with intelligence, it recalls an incident in which the same situation was mishandled.

I have raised a family. I have made mistakes in such numbers that I look back and shudder. I see, as usual, that hindsight is a thousands times better takes and experience, both at home many of the things to be avoided. Also than foresight. And from my own mis-and in the schoolroom, I have learned many of the things to be encouraged.

Often I think I could do a better job with my grandchildren. Not that my own have disappointed me or given me any reason to regret my little strictnesses, but merely that I have had opportunity to note these things that worked and others that could have been improved upon.

So, dear mothers, when I write to you, half the time I am saying "Mrs.
Smith" or "Mrs. Jones" when I mean over, adding to my personal experience the study of child nature in the abstract, I feel that the combination is honest.

There is one other item. Never do I betray a confidence. Not unless a mother asks me to write her problem in the paper. Even so, I change names, and dress up the story as a parallel experience that will convey the same lesson.

NEED VOCATIONAL SKILL Miles' Good Record Here

Washington, Negro vocational school at Vesper High School, tells that the following students have been selected for publication in the yearbook:

This year the Home Economics Department set out to accomplish some definite aims and to get all pupils taking the course to become Home Economics conscious, to motivate the work to create interest, develop personality and attitudes.

The federal class room has been made more attractive as well as more comfortable by adding six new work tables and fastening adequate working space. A bulletin board and dressing room took finished in green burlap were added. There is a store room with ample shelves for work and hanging of smocks that were made in the department and are used in the foods classes.

One most interesting project was the rearranging of the dining room and refectory. Dining room furniture with light oak windows curtained and draped in blue was put on the floor and suitable pictures were selected. Other necessities were bought for the dining room: silver cloth, table covers, and table cloth.

These are only a few of the things we have accomplished. Each unit of work has been interesting and the pupils work with pleasure.

A Christmas party was given on December 11, 1937, which proved to be a gala affair. All the boys who were members of the girls' classes were invited. Each girl made herself responsible for some task in the decoration of the department for the party. The Christmas tree was loaded with attractive decorations which harmonized with the atmosphere of the room.

The Home Economics Department, having created with its every student the type of Home Economics enthusiasm and interest, plans to do some very constructive work during the ensuing months of the school year.

Decided Improvement Brings on Optimistic Note From Athletics

By BILL BRAUCHER

NEW ORLEANS.—Two teams of Athletics are steaming northward through the cities of the south, one commanded by the aged but ageless Connie Mack, the other led by his son, Earl.

The elder Mack is schooling the son for the day when the youngster will be expected to take the place of his father, "honored" for so many years. But before that day comes.

"I want one more champion," the veteran confided at the Lake Charles camp where the A's were patiently put through their spring paces by the pebbles of the beach.

Connie Mack was reminiscent: "Thirty years ago we had a team that was rather lightly dismissed as cellar occupants by the experts who looked us over before the season started. But we finished second that year, only a few games behind the Tigers and that team was the nucleus of a champion. When I mention the names of Collins, Barry, Baker, Davis, McNelis, Krause, Plank, Bender, you get what I mean."

Youngsters Acquire More

"I am not ready to say that this team appears to be the kind of club that will go out and duplicate that record, but I feel that we will surprise every club in the league by our improvement over last year. Our pitching, hitting and fielding are definitely better."

"Some of our pitchers who had fair records last year will be winners this summer. And two or three of the younger pitchers have amazed me with their poise and ability."

Connie praised the training camp form shown by Henry Pippin, Chubby Dean, Carl Byrd and Leon Kyle. Pippin, towering right-hander, drafted from Sacramento, stands a fine chance of becoming a starter. Byrd and Kyle appear to need more schooling in the minors, but Mack believes that in Chubby Dean he may have the kind of southpaw he needs to fool the Yankees.

Dean, a made-over first baseman and good hitter, was held back last year by a finger infection, but looked good in his few appearances. Now he looks to be ready for a fine year. Much depends upon him and the A's other southpaw, Edgar Smith, a young man who lost some heart-breaking close ones last season.

Of the veterans, Buddy Thomas and George Caster have shown splendid form in the south. Lynn Nelson and

Rural Education

Support of the American Farm Bureau Federation has been thrown behind the Harris-Thomas Bill (Senate Bill No. 1365) in the Congress which would provide federal grants in aid to the states to equalize educational opportunities. A. B. Wetherington, chairman of the Education Committee of the House, and County Farm Bureau Federation.

"President Edward A. O'Mall of the American Farm Bureau Federation and Mrs. C. F. Weagley of the Associated Women of the organization recently appeared before the Senate committee on education in support of the measure," Mr. Frasier notified Mr. Wetherington. The Farm Bureau adopted a resolution favoring federal aid for education at its annual convention in New Orleans last December.

"Most inequalities in educational opportunities exist in rural areas," Mr. Frasier pointed out. "Federal aid in these areas is justified because the school population in them is heavier in relation to the total number of taxpayers and taxable wealth to support schools is much less than in urban centers."

"Because of the migration of such numbers of rural youth to the cities it is a matter of practical concern to the future welfare of the urban areas that they be interested in bringing about better educational facilities in the rural areas in order that this youth may be better prepared to assume the responsibilities of citizenship and earning a livelihood."

Mr. Frasier declared that federal aid to schools must be made "on the basis of need and ability to pay, rather than population" and that the government would not be justified in assuming burdens of school support which states can and should bear.

"In 1930 the farm population of the country was responsible for educating 31 percent of the children while receiving only nine per cent of the national income," he said.

"Equal educational opportunities for rural youth is one of the foremost planks in the Farm Bureau's platform," Mr. Wetherington said.

Plate seem to justify the purchase. Bill is a great competitor and hustler. Wayne Ambler appears to have the inside track at second base. There is a struggle at third between Bill Nagel, drafted from Baltimore, and Dario Lodigiani, little San Francisco Italian boy who formerly played second.

Nagel has been hitting hard in the training and exhibition games. Miles Aids Buck in Out-field Corps

Dick Seibert, shelled last summer by knee trouble, after making a fine start, is counted upon at first with a young man named Nick Etten playing understudy. Etten, also a left-hander, has been hitting like Babe Ruth.

The A's appear to have picked up a hitter in the outfield, too, in the person of Deo Miles, purchased from Chattanooga last August. Though the A's have seven or eight outfielders, with Bob Johnson and Wally Moses sure of steady work, Miles may start in center field. He is big and fast.

Sam Chapman, the All-American footballer, may spend the summer in the Texas League boiling out a few fielding fads under the direction of utility fencer.

It is not reasonable to expect the 76-year-old Mack to repeat his 1903 performance, but Connie says he is shooting for the first division, and feels sure that he has a club that will fight every foot of the way.

Woodrow Rich and Jim Tabor Figure in Red Sox Hopes for Championship

Former Little Rock Traveler Players Going Good in Florida Training Camp—Emerson Dickman Also Shows Class

By HARRY GRAYSON

SARASOTA, Fla.—Woodrow Rich isn't the only Red Sox hopeful who came from nowhere in a hurry.

Practically everybody, including Doc Prothro, the Little Rock manager now piloting the Phillies, had given up on the 22-year-old Rich late last June when the North Carolina backwoodsman settled down to win 19 games, including a no-hit no-runner, for the Travelers.

James Reuben Tabor quit the University of Alabama after one year to report to Boston's Little Rock Farm.

The Red Sox feared they had lost him a year ago when there was no word from him for weeks. Neither the telephone companies nor General Farley's agents could locate Crossroads, Ala.

And when Jim Tabor finally did show up at Saratoga, Joe Cronin and his lieutenants wished they had lost him.

Tabor had a hitch in his swing. He possessed a strong arm, but had no idea where the ball was going.

He was shipped to Minneapolis labeled "hopeless."

Pushed Higgins Right Off the Team

But Minneapolis was in the thick of the American Association race and Tabor was snapping the ball for a .330 average, when the redoubtable Michael Higgins was injured last August.

Recalled, Tabor broke into the American League with three hits in a 3-1 win over the Athletics.

Showered Cronin so much that Pinky Higgins was traded to Detroit for badly needed pitching help.

It is significant that Minneapolis dropped plumb out of the Association scramble with the departure of Tabor. Once he leveled his right-handed swing, Tabor hit the ball savagely, and for distance.

He has the arm that attracted attention a year ago, but now knows just where the ball is going.

And those paid by Tom Yawkey to appraise ball players say he covers a wider range than any other third baseman in baseball.

Tabor is a surly sort... only 22 and standing six feet two and weighing 180 pounds. He is the aggressive, winning type... acts like a bloke who would just as leave cut down basemen who get in his path.

Ted Williams, who became of age last October, is a ringer for Babe Herman both in appearance and action, but his early performances indicate that he is a better outfielder and hitter than the erstwhile delight of Brooklyn.

Gets Plug From Yankee Rookie

Everybody who has seen him agrees that the six-foot three, 180-pound left-handed hitting and throwing San Diego lad stands out.

In his second year of professional ball... both in Double A's... Williams led American Association basemen with 366, 43-home runs, 317 total bases and 130 runs.

I asked Joe Gallagher, the large young man of the Yankees who spent last season with Kansas City, if Williams wasn't favored by Minneapolis' short right fielder.

"Ted Williams will hit 'em over and throw to the plate accurately from any wall," replied Gallagher.

Like Babe Herman at the very end and takes an elaborate swing.

Association men say he has only to eliminate little fits of temper. He can't, for example, throw down his glove and refuse to chase a ball that gets through him.

Williams sings merrily while chasing a fly, but his Herman character traits do not require a helmet in right field or a safety director on the bases. Bobby Doerf hit 229 last year and now has the strength to go through the winter's season hard and full again. Jackie Wilson, the other Red Sox hope, in the eyes of many, is due to come into his own. Jim Bagby, Jr., won 15 in his first year. Emerson Dickman showed flashes of Grade A major league pitching.

With so many fine prospects due to arrive together, there is considerable ground for Joe Cronin's hunch that the Boston Red Sox are swinging into the winning cycle that Boston and Thomas Austin Yawkey so richly deserve.

100 YEARS OF BASEBALL

No. 33—The Yellow Ball

The idea for the yellow ball was given impetus when Mickey Cochrane lost sight of one of Bump Hadley's pitches at Yankee Stadium in May, 1937, and suffered the head injury which ended his active career.

History of the National Game Told in Sketches by Art Krenz

Frederic J. Rahr, New York color architect, believed a greater element of safety could be obtained by using a brighter-hued ball.

He decided on yellow because that was the most visible of all colors, pointing out its increased use on road signs and advertising.

It was claimed a yellow ball would be more easily seen against glaring white backgrounds of center field bleachers. Columbia and Fordham subsequently gave it a try in April, 1938. So did the Dodgers and Cardinals in August. Players agreed they were able to follow the ball better. The National League adopted the ball as optional at its December meeting, 1938.

IT'S IN THIS TIN, MEN!

The well-known Prince Albert tobacco, grand for "makin's" cigarettes—easy to roll—long-burning—with the real taste of quality

I SAY THERE'S NO OTHER TOBACCO LIKE PRINCE ALBERT FOR GETTING ALL THE SMOKING JOY THERE IS IN A 'MAKIN'S' CIGARETTE

JOHN DURKIN, busy hotel man, stepped outside with a friend who snapped this photo of him with his pocket tin of Prince Albert. "I've been enjoying P.A. for 5 years now," Durkin says, "and for easy rollin', taste, and mildness nothing beats P.A." Well, that's what you expect from a finer grade of tobacco, "Primp cut" for rollin' 'em, and treated to remove tongue-bite. Try a pocket tin as a starter—you'll never know how good P.A. is in a "makin's" cigarette unless you try it. No risk—just take hold of the iron-clad money-back offer. See reminder at right.

P. A. tastes mighty choice in a pipe too
